

THE DAILY BULLETIN
THURSDAY EVE., MAY 8, 1884.

VENKON predicts a frost in July.
CHAS. O'CONNOR, the New York lawyer, is dangerously ill.
The Southern Dental Association is in session at Lexington.

The Supreme Court at Washington has adjourned for the summer.

The anti-monopolists have declared in favor of Ben. Butler for President.

The Lower House of the Legislature has passed the school bill without amendment.

The wool clip of the State this year, it is estimated, will be about 6,000,000 pounds.

The outlook for an excellent wheat crop throughout the State is unusually promising.

The Senate Finance Committee have agreed to report adversely on the House bill for the redemption and coinage of the trade dollar.

In the contested election case at Washington, O'Farrell vs. Paul, O'Farrell was seated by a vote of one hundred and forty to eighty-one.

Governor Hendricks, of Indiana, thinks the tariff should be reduced so that it shall provide for economical government expenses and no more.

The name of Fred Grant is suggested as a good tail to the Lincoln ticket, on the ground that he is assumed to be the son of the old man as young Hamilton is.

It is said that Justice Harlan, of the Supreme Court, will resign during the summer to practice law at $25,000 per annum.

The New York Health Department, in investigating the adulterations of green coffee, finds that every cup of coffee made from the colored beans, placed on the market as Java, contains one-sixth of a grain of arsenious acid, which is a virulent poison.

The enacting clause of the Morrison tariff bill was defeated in the House by a vote of 159 to 155; forty-one Democrats voting with the capital of the country and against the interest of labor. They are men who should be remembered in future, and at the earliest moment retired to private life, as faithful representatives of their respective sections.

Says the Philadelphia Call: The value of a trade, in its discipline. It is a good teaching process. It compels habits of regularity and order that will be of value in after years. It teaches self-reliance and hardens muscles while training to labor. A trade is valuable amid the misfortunes of life. It is a sure dependence in time of need. All this and more is involved. The old system of apprenticeship is, of course, gone. It is no longer practical. Hence the necessity of industrial schools and the proper training as part of our system of education. This seems to be the only method left. It has the advantage of teaching both theory and practice. And were industrial schools established, so that full and careful instruction could be given theoretically and practically, it would accomplish much good. In some way this great necessity should be met. We need more skill in our industries rather than less if we are to maintain the status and rewards of labor.

How to Plant White Burley.
Chinaman Western Tobacco Journal.
The common practice with raisers of white burley tobacco is to set the plants about twenty inches apart in rows three and one-half feet wide and a great number of them made wide flat hills. Where this is done the hills should be made very low, in fact, the ground should be only chopped together, as it were, leaving the plant, when set, on a level with the plowed ground. This method of setting should always be observed, and more especially, when a dry season is anticipated, as it will enable the planter when he gets a stand, to add some fresh dirt to the crop at each successive plowing or hoeing, which, acting as a mulch, enables the plant to offer some effective resistance to the drought. Many planters, when their plants are sufficiently developed, always wait for a season, some few go to work and make a season. This is accomplished by making a sowing, with a pointed stick in the hill and pouring water into it until it is about two-thirds full, time is given to the ground to absorb the water, when the plant, which has been dried and immediately placed in a bucket of water and fresh earth mixed to the consistency of a very thin mortar, is set, and dry earth drawn over the moistened part to prevent baking.

At one time Tom Marshall, Robert J. Breckinridge and Henry Clay, were aspirants for public favor, but Clay distanced both of them, and won a Union-wide fame. After several years Marshall meeting Breckinridge said:
"Ah, Bob, that was a bad time for you and me when we tried to outwit old Han. I drove you to the pulpit and me to the bottle, and now I haven't stuck closer to my text than you have to yours."

FATE OF THE FLORIDA

One Hundred and Thirty-three Lives Lost in Mid Ocean.

Terrible Tidings Brought to Father Point, Quebec, by the Steamship Titania, which arrived at Father Point on the 5th inst.

New York, May 8.—At the office of the State Line to-day, it was stated that the steamship State of Florida was sunk in mid ocean, and all hands on board, except twenty-four, went down with her. The agent refused to give any further information except that they had received a telegram giving the above facts.

MONTREAL, May 8.—The steamship Titania, which arrived at Father Point at 5:40 this morning, sent the following state ment ashore:

"Have on board thirty-four persons thirty-two from the steamship State of Florida, and two from a bark which the Florida ran down in mid ocean. The latter two are the captain and sailor of the bark. All others, both on the steamship and the bark, were drowned."

No further particulars can be obtained until to-night, when the Titania arrives at Quebec.

QUEBEC, May 8.—The steamer Titania arrived at Father Point, having on board twenty-four persons rescued from the State of Florida.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Later news from Father Point, Canada, says the bark went down with twelve of her crew. Only the captain and two men were rescued, making a total known loss of life of 133 persons. The twenty-four survivors will be landed at Quebec to-day. It is not known if the Florida's second boat, with twenty souls, has been picked up. The Titania having gone to Quebec, no particulars of the disaster will be obtainable until later to-night.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.
FATHER POINT, Quebec, May 8.—The steamship Titania, from Glasgow, passed inward this morning.

She has on board twenty-four of the crew of the steamship State of Florida, the vessel having been sunk in a collision with a bark in mid ocean.

Out of 137 persons on the State of Florida only forty-four were saved, and of the bark's crew only the captain and two men were rescued.

A hundred and twenty-three souls went down with the steamer and twelve with the bark, making a total loss of 135. The survivors will probably be landed at Quebec.

New York, May 8.—The distance from Father Point to Quebec, where the steamer State of Florida, with the crew of the wrecked State of Florida expected to land, being nearly 300 miles, makes it doubtful whether the particulars of the disaster will be learned until a hour to-night.

FATHER POINT, Quebec, May 8.—These dispatches are not inconsistent with the report made by the City of Rome, that the ship which signaled her in mid ocean, had on board a portion of the crew of the State of Florida, but on the other hand corroborates that story and leads to the conclusion that the twenty not picked up by the Titania were rescued by another vessel.

The agents are not account for the collision, as the seamen of the State of Florida were all trained, and the officers from the Captain down, experienced and cheerful.

The following ladies and gentlemen of Wilmington, Ohio, were passengers on the steamer Florida, which has gone to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean:

Mrs. Henry and M. E. Wood and Misses Mary Shackleton, Lillian R. Wood and E. Wood. The Florida had thirty-four cabin and fifty stowage passengers, together with eighty officers and crew.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

NEW YORK, May 8.—It is now believed that fifty-two of the passengers and crew of the State of Florida were saved. Thirty-two are on the Titania, and twenty are reported to have been picked up by a passing ship, probably the one which signaled the City of Rome. One hundred and fifteen lives went down with the steamer Florida, and twelve with the bark, making a total of 127.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

Fifteen Hundred Respectable Citizens to be Indicted by the Grand Jury.

Schenoy, Pa., May 8.—Judge Hanley yesterday instructed District Attorney Connelly to prepare indictments against all known persons who have witnessed the prize fight between Hogan and Johnson, Saturday morning. Fifteen hundred persons, in clothing, Deputy Sheriffs, lawyers, doctors, editors, hotel-keepers, and merchants attended the fight. The next grand jury will evidently have a big week's work. The District Attorney has employed a detective to obtain the names of those who attended the match. The prosecution will be conducted by the failure of the Marine Bank and Grant & Ward, had considerably suffered when Exchange opened to-day, yet there were no signs of recovery. At the close yesterday numerous rumors of trouble to other banks were circulating, consequently when Exchange opened there was a large attendance. First sales showed a downward course had been checked and by the first call, quotations exhibited an improvement $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 per cent. Subsequently the bears made a raid on Erie, under which the entire list weakened, and a decline of $\frac{3}{4}$ to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. ensued. Since noon there has been a partial recovery, but the tone is feverish.

The New York Failures.
NEW YORK, May 8.—The feverish state of excitement into which financial circles were thrown by the failure of the Marine Bank and Grant & Ward, had considerably suffered when Exchange opened to-day, yet there were no signs of recovery. At the close yesterday numerous rumors of trouble to other banks were circulating, consequently when Exchange opened there was a large attendance. First sales showed a downward course had been checked and by the first call, quotations exhibited an improvement $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 per cent. Subsequently the bears made a raid on Erie, under which the entire list weakened, and a decline of $\frac{3}{4}$ to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. ensued. Looking for a Bank.

Yesterday afternoon after a stirring patroling Grissold street observed a stranger closely scanning the various buildings, as if measuring their dimensions with his eyes, and finally he stopped in front of one of our particular banks.
"I'm looking for a bank," was the reply.
"Well, there's half a dozen on the street."

"Yes, but I ain't quite satisfied. I've turned over a new leaf and am going to start a bank account. Here's a $2 bill I'm going to put in as a nest egg."

"Well, I guess it will be safe with any of 'em."
"Maybe so, but I'm kinder mixed. If I bank with a foreign building like enough a cyclone will come along and shave off about two stories. If I bank with any of the two-story fellows maybe they'll rent the upper floor to somebody who'll dig down into the vaults and go home with my cash."

"The officer lent him in a state of doubt, but two hours later found him in the alley in rear of the post-office happy dreamer."

"Have you got over your doubt?" asked the blue-coat, as he kindly collared him.
"Whaz you meen?"
"Why, about the banks."
"Yes, zar—yes, zar; steed of taking four or five dollars and splitting difference and left all money in threestory saloon! Whoop! Turned over a new leaf and going to start 'er bank myself!"

"Good morning, Miss Anderson," remarked Lawrence Barrett lightly, as he was ushered into the reception room of that great actress.

"Good morning, Mr. Barrett, she replied, sweetly."
"Thanks, but I have only a moment to stop. I dine with a Prince to-day. Ah—er—I merely called to inquire if you were expected to give the Atlantic cable to-day?"

"I think not," replied Mary, referring to a little note-book. "I believe there is nothing I care to communicate to the American public before to-morrow."

"Ah, thanks; then I'll avail myself of the opportunity. I scored a decided hit last night before a large and appreciative audience. Good morning."—Philadelphia Call.

The title of a new song is "Papa's Home To-night." He probably had to tack down carpets and hang pictures.—New York Journal.

"What is it that you like about that girl?" asked one young man of another. "My arm," was the brief reply.—Burlington Free Press.

"If I love you I'll give, no more I'll ask," sings a fair poetess. "Yes, that's what they all say beforehand; but what does it amount to—Burlington Free Press."

You never have seen, I'll bet you a dollar, As neat a thing As the side-cup collar. It has on the collar Two neat little tongues, And all of the boys Will find it at Young's.

I have used and prescribed hundreds of bottles since the days of my army practice (1863) when I was surgeon of Hospital No. 7, Louisville, Ky."

The Ice Question.
Where do you buy your ice? The Mayville Artificial Ice Company is selling the best ice in the world at a less price than is usually asked for inferior ice. Send your orders to the office on Wall street, or give them to the driver of the delivery wagon. msdl2

Question your Druggist.
And he will tell you, that there is a greater demand for Soodozont than for any other preparation for the teeth. Then ask yourself whether an article for which the demand is general and constant, must not possess genuine merit. The dental response will be that it does, since the conclusion is irresistible, that if it did not really polish and preserve the teeth, a discerning public would long since have discovered the fact. It advertises itself.

The Quackenbush Tragedy.
CLYDE, N. Y., May 8.—George Quackenbush, who shot his wife and two children at Savannah, Saturday afternoon, was taken before Justice Hall, Monday, waived examination and was committed, at Lyons, to wait grand jury action. This evening Mrs. Quackenbush and children are alive but their conditions are precarious. Quackenbush claims the shooting was accidental. The woman made an ante-mortem statement before Justice Hall today, in which she said:

"I am the wife of George Quackenbush. On Saturday, Quackenbush started for the woods to shoot some cattle that were trespassing on his premises. When about four rods from the house he said to me, 'Go—d— you, I have a notion to shoot you.' He then turned and went a few steps, and again said: 'Go—d— you, I will shoot you and dropped on one knee, deliberately took aim and shot me and our two children. I make this statement in view of my approaching death."

A Cool, Villainous Murder.
CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 8.—Early yesterday morning F. H. Proctor heard some one calling his name. Stepping to the door, he was confronted by a white man named Doc. Thomson. Thomson held a pistol in his hand and took quick aim and fired. Proctor fell to the ground, mortally wounded. His death occurred within a few moments. The cause of the shooting is said to have been an old grudge that had existed for a long time between the two. Thomson was found by one of the pursuing parties at the house of his brother, near Broad Station, and was taken, guarded by twenty armed men, to Lincolnton Station.
